

The floor sample slide display cabinet

Functional floor presentation system

Presenting floors in a showroom environment to most advantageous effect usually takes up considerable amounts of space, particularly as you are keen to present your customers with a good idea as to what the floor will actually look like once fitted. As a result, you are usually able to present a handful of sections of floor in your showroom, which as a rule tend to be the best-selling types, but this does not do justice to the full range you carry.

For most people, purchasing a new floor remains a hefty investment. As prospective buyers, they have every right to expect a wide choice, especially when turning to a specialist store. Which is why, in addition to its innovative 'klapcarrousel', De Jong has devised a slide display cabinet, enabling you to present a large part of your range in floor coverings in a straightforward manner using only a comparatively amount of space.

The universal wall and slide display cabinet consists of a modular system that makes it easy to place two cabinets on top of each other. Per cabinet, you can fit separate and detachable display boards. As these boards are mounted at an angle, all boards are properly visible to customers. The dimensions of the boards are such that they are easily taken out. To be placed on the floor for example, to be admired to even greater effect, giving customers an even more realistic idea of what the floor covering may look like inside their home.
